WELCOME

Dear Parents and Carers,

This webinar celebrates and supports parents and carers on Parent Mental Health Day 2023, which stem4 is the proud founder of. It endeavours to bring together parents and carers, our ambassadors, and clinicians to provide an opportunity to learn and share ideas on boosting resilience, both in ourselves and our young people.

Resilience is the positive way in which we adapt to the adverse challenges we face in life. The cost-of-living crisis has come on the close heels of the pandemic, which has also been followed by significant social, environmental, and political change. These have contributed to more than just a financial crisis but a mental health one too. As pointed out by NHS Digital data in 2022, as many as 1 in 6 children and young people are presenting with a probable mental health condition, with the number rising to 1 in 4 among adults. Emerging concerns about the pressures the UK health service is under is leading to increased apprehension about being able to receive timely, free, and expert help. As well, recent tragic stories of online harms are raising concerns about the psychological safety of children and young people's online interactions. We now need a focus on ways to build resilience and a connected community in order to minimise further negative impact. Together, we can.

I hope you find this webinar a useful starting point. stem4 provides a huge range of support: evidence-based digital tools for early intervention; a range of resources on our website; up to date poll data from our different audiences, which we raise awareness of at a national level and work towards supporting in multiple ways; our informative podcast where we discuss a range of topics; input from our amazing young ambassadors who generously share their stories and time to help inform and make change; a range of clinically informed webinars, in-person talks, and conferences. We hope you might find some of these offers of further use and that you will consider supporting us in our charitable endeavours.

stem4's mental health podcast Understanding TeenMinds

Understanding Teen Minds aims to provide insight into the world of teenage mental health, looking at everything from signs and symptoms to early intervention.

Drawing on the extensive knowledge and experience of stem4 Founder, Consultant Clinical Psychologist Dr. Nihara, along with the evidence-based resources and apps provided by stem4, we hope our podcast will be a useful tool and support for health and education professionals, parents, and young people alike.

Listen to the podcast at stem4.org.uk/podcasts/.

MEET THE SPEAKERS

Dr Nihara Krause Consultant Clinical Psychologist CEO and Founder, stem4

Nihara has many years of clinical experience working in a variety of mental health settings with both young people and adults. She has specialist experience in eating disorders and self-harm. Nihara is also a university lecturer, works extensively with the media and has input in informing government on youth matters. She has a special interest in building resilience, as well as practicing effective treatment techniques for a variety of psychological problems. Nihara is the clinician who developed the award-winning Calm Harm, Clear Fear, Move Mood, and Combined Minds apps for stem4.

Most recently, Nihara developed the Worth Warrior app, stem4's latest app which helps manage low self-worth and body dissatisfaction leading to eating difficulties.

Dr Richard Graham Clinical Director, stem4

Dr Richard Graham is a Consultant Child & Adolescent Psychiatrist and a former Clinical Director at the Tavistock Clinic. For the last five years, he was Clinical Director for Good Thinking: London's Digital Mental Wellbeing Service.

He has worked extensively in digital health and e-safety for the last 12 years and is recognised as a digital health pioneer. He also established the first Technology Addiction Service for Young People in the UK in 2010 and contributed to the World Health Organisations consideration of Gaming Disorder as a medical diagnosis.

Since 2012, he has been very actively involved with the UK Council for Internet Safety (UKCIS—the British Government's principal advisory body for online safety and security) and co-chairs its Digital Resilience Working Group. He also works with the BBC as Digital Well-Being Consultant to the Own It App, as well as acting as an adviser to emerging companies such as TikTok and Yubo.

Rosie Day stem4 Ambassador

Rosie Day is an award-winning young actress. She is a series regular on Golden Globe nominated Sony Pictures/Starz TV series Outlander and recently starred in 'All Roads Lead to Rome', alongside Sarah Jessica Parker. She was named one of Screen International's 'Stars of Tomorrow'.

Rosie said: 'I'm so delighted to be an ambassador for stem4! A cause very close to my heart, stem4 does such brilliant, important work with teenage mental health, from prevention to early intervention and managing mental illnesses. Their work is so highly needed in today's society, and I'm so looking forward to working with this excellent, life-changing charity.'

Dr Nihara Krause, CEO of stem4 said: 'I am very pleased to welcome Rosie as a young ambassador to stem4. Her enthusiasm and commitment to the work we do is fantastic and I'm sure the young people we work with will see her as a positive role model.'

Shad Ahmad stem4 Ambassador

I came from a very demanding background, with high expectations. I never fitted into any groups in school. I tried, I tried fitting in with the sweet boys, the road guys, the ballers, the dancers, but never felt like I found my place. In looking to find who I was, to find happiness, I ended up making bad decisions, one after the other, which ended up with me wanting to take my own life and making one attempt.

But once I opened up to the right support and took in what was being said, my whole world opened up. I found happiness, I found myself, and now I'm proud of the man I am. Above all, I found the power within me. I'm no longer changed by the world; I change the world around me.

Dr Nihara Krause, CEO and Founder of stem4 said: 'Shad is a very welcome addition to our student conferences. His moving story is not only inspirational but he is warm and relatable and our young audiences really value what he has to say.'

What is #PMHD?

stem4's Parent Mental Health Day (PMHD) encourages understanding and awareness of the importance of the family as a system where parent and carer mental health is as important a focus as young people's mental health. With this year's theme being #BuildFamilyResilience, the day will aim to explore how family resilience can be built, minimising negative impact on either parents and carers or their children and young people.

The #PMHD story

Whilst in most instances parents and carers dig deep to find the resources and resilience needed to help their families and face the challenges that arise, the need to find financial and mental health support (for their young person or themselves) and digital harms security may result in less time spent as a family together and fewer opportunities to focus on family wellbeing. This can lead to potential further negative impact on mental health.

That's why this year's theme is #BuildFamilyResilience, focusing on how parents and carers can successfully adapt to challenging life situations, and deal with their own stress and anxiety, while navigating their family through difficult times.

stem4, a charity that supports young people to build positive mental health, is proud to be the founder of Parent Mental Health Day.

CONVERSATION STARTERS

By Dr Nihara Krause, Consultant Clinical Psychologist

Tips on starting a conversation with your young person

- What made you feel good today?
- What's the most common way people your age start a conversation?
- What three things would you want with you if you were on a desert island?
- What's a good conversation for the middle of the night?
- What three things about you would you not put online?
- Can you name the title of a song that best describes you?
- What would your perfect day be like?
- What's the most talked about topic at the moment?
- Is there anything about yourself that you would like to change?

Tips for parents and carers to #BuildFamilyResilience

- 1 Keep family routines the same.
- 2 Don't forget to keep up with family rituals and celebrations, even if they are more altered in format.
- 3 Spend quality time together—it doesn't have to be expensive. Solve a puzzle, watch a movie, cook something.
- 4 Provide opportunities for whole family involvement. This means working together as a team.
- 5 Communicate regularly and often. Be open to addressing fears, uncertainties, and answering difficult questions.
- 6 Be mindful of language—use hopeful language, provide helpful information, listen, and help everyone feel they can be heard. However small the worry, don't minimise fears and worries.
- 7 Permit emotional processing. This means letting each family member process what they are going through in their own way. Respect these differences.
- 8 Restrictions are hard to deal with. Shape your environment to be relaxing and include small treats from time to time. Some examples include having a special meal together, listening to calming music, and lighting a candle.
- 9 Focus on a common purpose. This can include getting together to explore ways to save money, ways to connect, and how to have fun.

Focusing on a Strengths-Based Approach

This approach focuses on identifying resources and resilience factors in an individual when dealing with mental health difficulties and harnessing these to make change, rather than focusing on negatives or 'deficits' and is used in the Combined Minds app.

Example: Not getting out of bed in the morning due to low mood.

Rather than focusing on lack of motivation, see it as an opportunity to use shared strengths to get better.

Create a list of strengths (theirs and yours):

Use the acrostic CPR (Saleebey 2006) to generate some.

C: competence, capacities, character, and courage

P: promise, possibility, purpose, and positive expectations

R: resilience, reserves, relationships, resolve and resources

Follow these steps:

1. Create one well-defined and focused goal
Get out of bed by 9am four times a week.
2. The goal should be measurable and attainable.
3. What strengths are you going to use?
Define a top strength of theirs (and yours) that can be applied to the goal.
Theirs: capable, kind, caring, generous, can be focused, good friend, loyal
Yours: capable, caring, generous, patient, organised, resourceful
4. Outline a plan (baby steps to hardcore!).
Be realistic. A high chance of success boosts accomplishment rate.
Them: Start by setting an alarm, visualising the positives of the day ahead.
You: Will remind them to get out of bed, will be prepared to be patient in terms of change.
- Review your plan, is it working? Provide feedback on the activity and refer to it later. What needs to be changed? How can you maintain it?
